

michelleherrondotcom

STORM BOELO

washing dishes, watching the storm noticing how the trees are weathering it - grounded yet flexible moving in the direction that the wind is taking them yielding, not resisting a trip to the allotment ... and thanks to my internal reinforcement of the structure the gazebo is still standing - just mother nature will always outwit a mere human i headed home, unconcerned by the loss of time, money and creativity invested in making a cosy corner to rest and retreat instead looking at it as an opportunity to see what can be salvaged when the storm has passed to fashion a new form from the old

M 😊

https://michelleherron.com/visual-diary/