TRUST YOUR INSTINCTS

i took over the allotment mid july - past the sowing season but as we were in the midst of a heatwave i planted an array of seeds anyway resulting in an abundance of blossoms to support nature when everyone else's blooms had faded a reminder that rules can be arbitrary ... read the room and trust your instincts you may be amazed by the outcome especially when there is not much to lose except for a few packets of seeds
